EXPRESS YOUR OPINION

- I think...
- As I see it...
- In my opinion...
- I believe...
- In my view ...
- To my mind ..
- If you ask me...

- What I mean is... / In my opinion...
- I'm quite certain that...
- Personally, I feel.../ think.../ suppose.../ guess...

FAMILY TIES

The 10th form

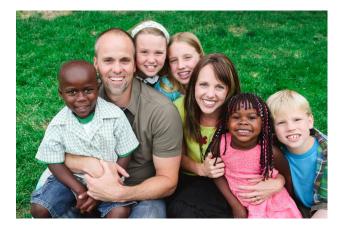

LESSON OBJECTIVES

Today we are going to talk about different types of families, discuss about the role of each member in the family, name and make a TOP of family values, enrich the vocabulary with new words on the topic.

WHAT TYPES OF FAMILIES DO YOU KNOW?

Foster family

Extended family

Nuclear family

Single-parent family

- A family that takes care of children, usually for a limited time, without being the children's legal parent.
- A family consisting of two parents and their children, but not including aunts, uncles, grandparents, etc.
- A family that includes either a mother or a father but not both.
- A family unit that includes grandmothers, grandfathers, aunts, and uncles, etc. in addition to parents and children.

Foster family

A family that takes care of children, usually for a limited time, without being the children's legal parent.

- A family consisting of two parents and their children, but not including aunts, uncles, grandparents, etc.
- A family that includes either a mother or a father but not both.
- A family unit that includes grandmothers, grandfathers, aunts, and uncles, etc. in addition to parents and children.

Nuclear family

A family that takes care of children, usually for a limited time, without being the children's legal parent.

- A family consisting of two parents and their children, but not including aunts, uncles, grandparents, etc.
- A family that includes either a mother or a father but not both.
- A family unit that includes grandmothers, grandfathers, aunts, and uncles, etc. in addition to parents and children.

Single-parent family

- A family that takes care of children, usually for a limited time, without being the children's legal parent.
- A family consisting of two parents and their children, but not including aunts, uncles, grandparents, etc.
- A family that includes either a mother or a father but not both.
- A family unit that includes grandmothers, grandfathers, aunts, and uncles, etc. in addition to parents and children.

Extended family

AGREE OR DISAGREE

AGREEMENT

- I agree this statement ...
- It may be right that ...
- I fully agree that ...
- I am of the same opinion that ...

DISAGREEMENT

- I disagree that ...
- Well, I'm not sure that
- I can't agree that ...
- I can't agree with the statement that ...
- I wouldn't say that

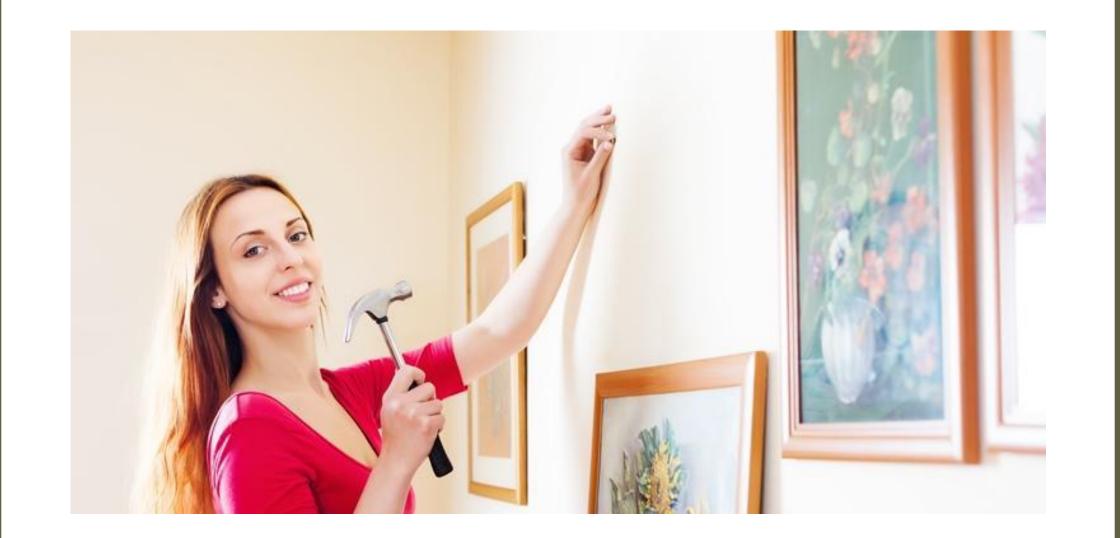

...

MATCH THE PICTURES YOU SEE WITH THE WORD COMBINATIONS IN YOUR TEXTBOOK.

Comment on each of the two pictures. Would you prefer any of them to have as an ideal version for your future family? Why, or why not?

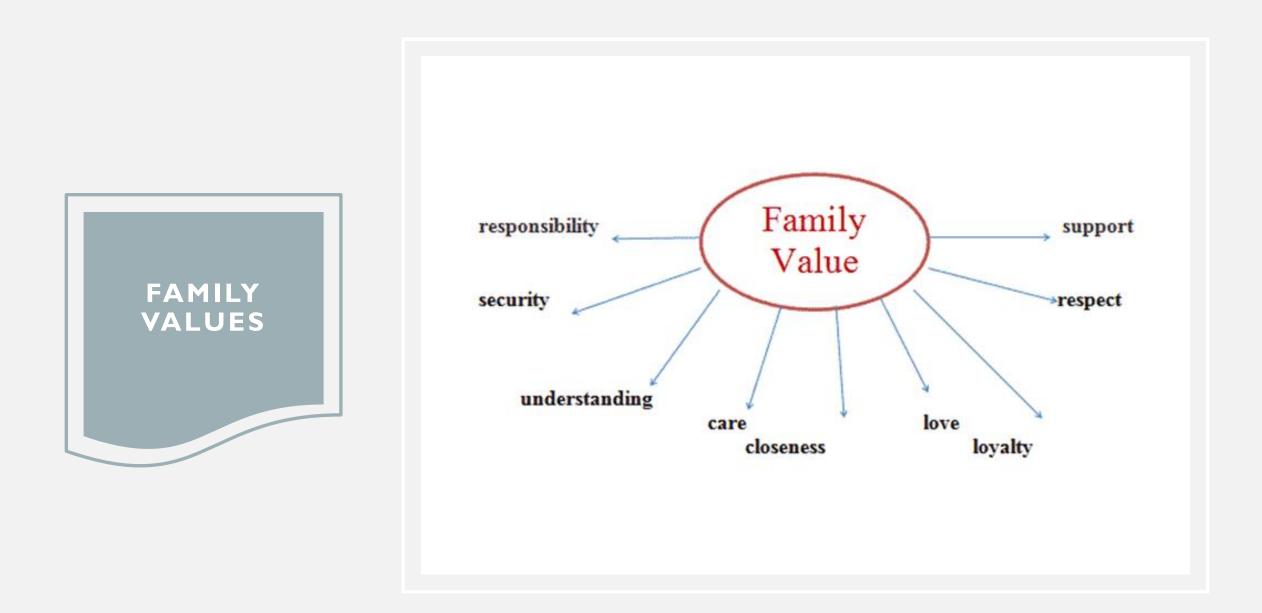

READ THE TEXT ABOUT BRITISH FAMILIES AND FIND THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN FAMILIES IN GREAT BRITAIN IN PAST AND NOWADAYS.

The Changing face of the British Family

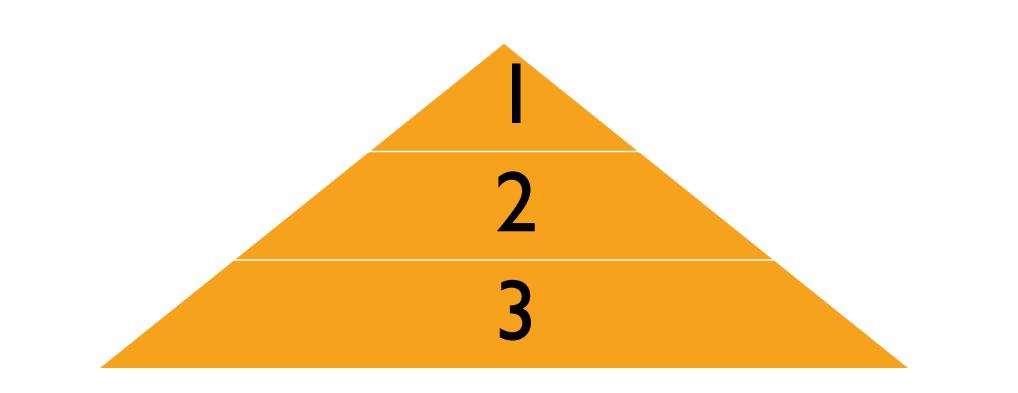

The traditional nuclear family of 1960s Britain consisted of a married male breadwinner and female care living in a household with their children. This is now a thing of the past.

Since the sixties, a dramatic change in the structure of family life has taken place in the UK. Marriage rates have been declining and the age at which people marry has been increasing. Divorce rates have increased dramatically in the past four decades. There are also more and more couples who have chosen not to marry. Single parents are no longer the exception and women have started giving birth to fewer children later on in life. The result is that it is becoming increasingly rare to find the nuclear family structure in 21st century Britain. Indeed, researches agree that by 2020 it will be very difficult to talk about the "typical British family" because there will be many different types. While many people worry about the "breakdown" of the family, others propose another way of looking at things. These people suggest that families are not falling apart. Rather, the future of the family is stronger than ever in the UK. Families may live apart, but the emotional support and commitment between family members remains just as strong as ever. Surveys show that family members who live apart still turn to each other for support when important life events occur. And families are still responsible for most of the socializing which occurs in British life. Also, it is conversations between family members and the age at which people marry has been increasing.

In other words, the change that the family has undergone in the last few decades is not so much breakdown. It is a reinvention. Families in the UK are still highly valued and will continue to be so in the future.

MAKE A TOP OF 3 VALUES YOU CONSIDER THE MOST IMPORTANT. ARGUMENT YOUR CHOICE.

OPEN LETTER

Dear parents,

I want to tell you that today in the English lesson we talked about ...

I learnt some new words:

I read a text about

It was easy to ...

It was difficult for me to ...

I think the lesson was ...